

ASA/CSCA Joint Annual Meeting

Trinity Western University

Langley, BC

July 23 – 26, 2004

Symposium Invitation

Christian Environmentalism: Technology, Theology and Social Organization.

From the outset of human history, the Creator has established moral order. Humans and humans only are in God's image. How should we understand our special moral status and role? What are the implications of this moral standing for how we should act? In this symposium we desire to explore environmental ethics and scientific issues from a distinctively Christian and interdisciplinary perspective entailing theoretical and practical aspects. We intend to explore insights into human agency in creation featuring aspects of technology, theology, and social structure.

Individuals contemplating submitting a presentation proposal for this symposium are encouraged to contact the chair of the Global Resources and Environment Commission (John.Wood@Kingsu.ca) to express their interest and seek advice. Abstracts are due January 31, 2004. For details see the American Scientific Affiliation web site <http://www.asa3.org/>

Overall Conference Theme:

Neuroscience and the Image of God

This symposium is sponsored by the Global Resources &amp; Environment Commission and by the affiliation of Christian Engineers and Scientists in Technology.
---